Saturday, September : 19 Those in attendance on the republican convention at Wailuku this week must have been struck by strength of sentiment both among the whites and the Hawanians, in favor of selecting competent county officers, and the fruit of this sentiment became apparent when final results were declared. Without one exception the peo- throughout the Territory, except ple may confidently trust their interests to the candidates named. and the action of the republican convention will doubtless stimulate the home rulers to elevate the standard of qualification of their candidates. The republicans were of course compelled to turn down some candidates whose only qualifications consisted of a hungry, greedy lust for office. Some of these gentry have, since the republican convention adjourned, signed the home rule party rolls, hoping to secure loaves and fishes in that direction, but the other County. home rulers probably will not care particularly for republican cast-offs.

The work which Prof. Koebele and other territorial scientists is accomplishing in the matter of ridding the territory of pests icommendable, but Maui offers a large field for work in a comparatively new and most important direction. The horn fly pest on Maui is growing more unendurable every year, and cattle are beginning to suffer beyond the limit. From Honokohau to Hana the South Kona, upon the Island of Hahorn fly plague prevails, and it is now up to the scientists to try to discover a parasite which will check their ravages. Proper in pautical miles of the shores thereof. vestigation would probably result in the discovery of a parasite which would mitigate the suffering of the stock cattle on the ranges. as well as the parn yard cattle, to a degree at least, and check the present loss of cattle from this pest. The attention of the territorial entomologist is specially invited to the matter, with the request that he experiment in the direction of discovering a remedy for the grievous horn fly evil on Maui.

Brother Testa of the Independent suggests that the farm which it won on a wager from the NEWS man is available only as ballast for Honclulu ships, which gives the NEWs just the opening it wanted, to make a few remarks. Now, Brother Testa, if you will come to Wailuku and take a stroll with the NEWS man to a point above town, say, near the reservoir, you can stand in one place, look round you and see on central Maui an area of land which shipped 60,000 tons of sugar from Kahului during the past season, and which will ship 100,000 tons, two years from now. Is that the kind of land to ship away as ballast? Further, last year Honolulu held an inter island agricultural fair, and out of the thirty first premiums awarded, Maui won eleven, or over one-third, including avocado pears, bananas, corn, carrots, squash, oranges, cocoanuts, etc. Oh no, Brother Testa, Maui has a better use for its soil than to ship it away as ballast.

The Advertiser raises the point in a recent editorial that the county surveyor has a "graft" in the matter of his duties as ex- FOR EACH OF THE COUNTIES the sixth Precinct, the lands of thereof from the Nuuanu Pali to Lenore Stripes officio recorder of maps and plats filed for record. While by Sec. 168, Chap. 19, "such maps and plats as are filed and thereby made a record are exempt from the provisions of this Act," still it does not follow that the fees for such platting are exempt, and subdivision 13, Sec. 268, Chap, 32 of the county act directs the disposition of the fees for such work. At the same time, the entire county act, so far as it relates to surveyors is dubious and uncertain, both as to his duties and compensation, if any be allowed, above his salary. Two years' work under the law will more clearly define its defects however, and thus show what amendments are needed.

The home rule county convention in East Hawali county has taken the bull by the horns in the matter of nominations for county officers, and their list of candidates shows as many republicans as home rulers, their evident object being to secure good men, regardless of politics. If Maui county home rulers show the like feeling, they may cause the republican party on Maui to regret the fact that they declined to extend the clive branch to the home rulers in the matter of a combined ticket, especially as the home rule vote on Mani will prove so important a factor in the November elections.

What is being done in Wailuku today is typical of the enterprising and hospitable spirit which prevails in our live and prosperous little town. It being learned that Co. "F," N. G. H., who have been visiting Hilo would stop off and visit us for the day, a generous purse was raised to provide creature comforts, and a welcome is being extended to them which they will probably remember long and pleasantly.

According to the provisions of the organic act the new governor of the territory must be a resident of the Islands, and it is admitted that George R. Carter is the first choice of President Roosevelt, still it would have been good politics for the Maui County Covention to have requested Carter's appointment, in view of possible contingencies.

It was expected that there would be hot times in Hilo over the fight for sheriff, and all expectations have been more than realized. However Andrews won out in the convention, and now comes the serious question, as to whether he can heal over the breach. If not, the home rule sheriff will probably have a walkover.
